June 2005

LINC ENERGY IN TALKS WITH CHINESE INVESTMENT GROUPS

Queensland based oil and gas company, Linc Energy, hopes that talks in Brisbane will play a major role in opening the door to major investment in its Chinchilla Underground Coal Gassification power and oil project.

With increasing speculation on a looming world oil shortage, a senior delegation of the Shanghai Government is in Brisbane and is in talks with Linc Energy, the Queensland-based firm chaired by Former Queensland Premier Mike Ahern which is developing an alternative form of oil production.

Linc Energy Managing Director, Peter Bond, will detail to the Shanghai delegation Linc's plans to become a major new force in the energy sector.
